

ECONOMIST

Based in Brussels and established in 1972, Leaseurope, the European Federation of Leasing Company Associations, is looking for an Economist. Besides representing the common interests of its members in the dialogue with European and international institutions, Leaseurope produces publications, position papers, press releases, industry statistics and market trends analysis. Leaseurope is recognized as the premier source for information on the state of the European leasing and automotive rental markets.

Job description

The position entails:

- Collecting market data and information at regular intervals
- Analysing and interpreting the collected data to generate value messages
- Writing insightful analysis of market trends and sentiment (incl. tables and charts)
- Authoring articles for submission to specialized press
- Undertaking research and conducting surveys on specific issues
- Developing support material for use in submission to policy makers and standard setters
- Presenting findings to Board members as well as at international conferences

Qualifications

The successful candidate will have:

- University degree in economics or related field, with first rate academic record. A Master degree is an asset
- Minimum 2 (more preferred) years of relevant work experience
- Excellent computer skills (incl. experience with Excel and PowerPoint)
- Thorough analytical skills
- Demonstrated first class drafting and presentation skills
- Problem-solving attitude
- Ability to meet strict deadlines
- Superior attention to details
- Fluency (native level) in English; another European language is an asset
- Prior knowledge of the leasing industry useful but not required

We offer

- The chance to become part of a pan-European entrepreneurial trade association
- An intellectually challenging position
- High visibility and close interaction with senior industry representatives and media
- Opportunities to grow
- A small, flexible, young and energetic team
- A competitive remuneration package commensurate with qualifications and experience
